

Available Girl

I never thought when I came back things could have changed so much
But I stayed away just a little too long, she got loose and lonely and such An available girl, taking on the world

I sneaked up behind her and said surprise, she turned and held me too close and too tight
And when she finally let me look in her eyes, I could tell something was not right
She wasn't sleeping at home, or alone, last night

Chorus:

Oh no oh does it mean (sad sad scene!)
I'm caught in the cold again, caught out in the cold again

She took me inside I was standing by her window staring outside through the pane
Believing I loved her, wondering what to make of her, wishing lord it would rain
I had a lot to lose, and nothing to gain

Chorus

She came up behind me , put her arms around me, and said it can be this way
I'm happy to see you're back in town, but I can't see you every day
I hope you don't mind, or think I'm being unkind
I hope you don't mind, my love ain't blind.
