

Wind in the Trees

Summer night breezes linger over your skin Morning sunlight sleeps in your hair
The blue in your eyes is like starlight in ice You weaves your dream webs in the air

You run into the night with your eyes on the stars
You think they cross the sky for you
Don't worry about me, I'm like wind in the trees
Sighing, just passing through

Dreams turn to dust and get swept under the rug I don't remember 'em much anymore
But I'll never forget the look in your eyes The night you showed up at my door

We ran into the night with our eyes on the stars
You said they cross the sky for you
I said don't worry about me I'm like wind in the trees
Sighing, just passing through

Love like a lover, a sister, my twin It changes each time you appear
I don't always catch every signal you send Your dream-gaze ain't always that clear

You run into the night with your eyes on the stars
I guess they cross the sky for you
You say don't worry about me I'm like wind in the trees
Sighing just passing through

Summer night breezes lingered over her skin Morning sunlight slept in her hair
The blue in her eyes was like starlight in ice She wove her dream webs in the air

She ran into the night she ran into the stars
They cross the sky that's just what they do
Now that she's free she's the wind in the trees
Sighing just passing through Sighing, just passing through
